Dear Mr. Asad Lodhi, Divisional Forest Officer, NWFP Wildlife Department, worthy parents, distinguished guests, dear faculty members and students, I welcome you to our 12th Annual Academics day.

A decade and a half seems quite some time in the life of an individual, but when it is viewed with reference to an institution, it is just the beginning of setting traditions and strengthening the foundations. In the history of the evolution of an educational institute, 15 years just mark the beginning of growth and development, but we can proudly claim, that over the last 15 years, St. Francis' has set ample credibility among the educational institutes of this region. As far as I myself am concerned, my humble contribution towards education in this region is spread over 3 decades - thirty long years, a whole lifetime of teaching. But during all these years, I kept the windows of my mind open to learning, and each day brought me new experiences. Each morning gave me new light to look at life from a new perspective, and I made my best, humble efforts to pass on this light to those who were entrusted unto me as my students and fellow teachers. And the reward of all this endeavour lies in the gratification that I feel when I see my students illuminating the world with that light, striving to bring about positive changes in the world and making untiring efforts in their own fields to make today better than yesterday.

We are all well aware of the fact that man has caused irreversible damage to nature in the name of progress and development over the last few centuries. At present, the very existence of mankind is threatened because of rapid destruction of flora and fauna and the subsequent harmful effects on our environment. But we are lucky that we have people dedicated enough to this cause and who are making untiring efforts to save what we are left with, and also to create an awareness among masses about this very important, but neglected issue. Our guest of honour, Mr. Asad Lodhi, is working as Divisional Forest Officer in the NWFP Wildlife Department, for protection of wildlife in the province. Back in 1980's, he was my student in St. Mary's. After leaving school in 1983, he earned degrees in his field from foreign universities, joined NWFP wildlife department, earned scholarships for research, wrote research papers on wildlife conservation, prepared various development projects and played pivotal role in establishment of wildlife parks all over the province. He has visited as many as 10 countries to gain and share experiences and to spread the light of education and awareness. The most remarkable of his efforts is the awareness he is creating among students about conservation of wildlife. Our school is also a regular participant in the programmes conducted by wildlife department and we aspire for continuing joint efforts for conservation of nature around us. He will apprise you more about the efforts of his department when he talks to you after a while. After listening to him, you all will realize how rich our province is in wildlife, and how concerned well all need to be, in order to protect our natural heritage for our future generations.

Ladies and gentlemen, we owe a lot to our future generations. We are responsible to give them a world better than we inherited from our predecessors. We, as educationists, are making efforts to shape up their characters and careers, so that socio - economic structure of tomorrow could be better than today. Evolution - the change from simple beginnings to far better outcomes is seen not only in life forms and scientific gadgets, but also in the society and its institutions. As I mentioned in the beginning, we are also in the process of evolution, and we keep assessing and evaluating ourselves. In the light of these appraisals, we bring about positive changes aiming at the academic and moral development of our students. In consultation with the parents, students and the faculty, we have devised a Confidence Building Strategy for the students. In future, we plan to set up the matric examination hall at St. Francis', so that our students feel at home, and at ease. This confidence will help them perform better in the examination. We also plan to complete the practical work in science subjects and the syllabi of all the subjects well ahead of time so that the students can have ample time for revision. Before the Board Examination, we plan to arrange special revision classes conducted by the visiting faculty including eminent teachers and professors. Another unique feature we are adding to our schedule very soon is Zero Period in the morning before the assembly. This period will be used mostly for teaching, revision and problem-solving in Mathematics.

Dear parents, we are striving to do our best to meet your expectations, but our struggle can only be successful with three-dimensional efforts - Students, Teachers and Parents working in harmony to achieve the goal. We demand your full cooperation in this regard so that our children can achieve remarkable success following the path of righteousness, virtue and hard work.

Towards the end, I wish to express my gratitude to all those who made themselves available for the encouragement of their children in spite of rigorous routine and fasting in the holy month of Ramazan. I am also thankful to the teachers and the students who worked against all odds for today's function. I must also appreciate the presence of Mr. Asad Lodhi who accepted our invitation happily and took time out to be with us today.

Take a thought home today: To teach your children succeed with honesty and integrity is the beginning of education.
